

SANCTA MARIA COLLEGE

Excellent Catholic girls' school in a new modern building just south of Dublin!

Sancta Maria College is a large all-girls' Catholic school located in the Dublin suburb of Ballyroan, just 20 minutes from the city centre. A broad and comprehensive curriculum is provided, delivered by staff members who are highly qualified and experienced and deeply committed to ensuring the provision of a quality teaching and learning experience for all students.

The school has an excellent academic reputation, with the vast majority of students progressing to university after completing the Leaving Certificate examinations. Students' involvement in the visual arts is promoted, and the school has a long tradition of students continuing their studies at the National College of Art & Design in Dublin. The school building is newly refurbished and boasts some of the best modern school facilities in the Dublin area, including state-of-the-art specialist classrooms and a large sports hall.

Staff at the school are deeply mindful of the welfare of all students and pastoral care is of the utmost importance at all times. All students are appropriately challenged to achieve their personal best, to have high expectations of themselves and the confidence and self-belief to pursue their dreams.

DUBLIN

Dublin is a small capital city with a big reputation and is renowned for being one of the most lively and welcoming cities in the world! Youthful and cosmopolitan, it is the perfect location choice for international high school students who want to experience Irish life in an exciting fast-paced environment.

With charming cobbled streets, quirky boutiques and world-class attractions and museums, Dublin offers endless possibilities for fun and learning. It's also easy for students to explore outside the city, thanks to excellent transport connections both to the seaside and to other Irish cities. The city's beautiful eastern coastline is the perfect place to enjoy long walks, fish & chips and breathtaking views.
